RUSSIANS WARNED OF WORLD ENMITY

Soviets Display Military Power To 'Repel Cap- italist Invasion'; England Notably Free of Violence

By the Associated Press.

Most of the world's large cities had parades or demonstrations yesterday, but May Day violence apparently was at a lower ebb than it has ever been since the World War.

After most of the holiday's enthusiasm had died down, only three deaths had been ascribed to clashes between extremists and police, although scores were injured during skirmishes, most of which occurred in European cities.

One demonstrator was killed near Madrid, Spain, and two in the Silesowice, Poland, coal strike area.

Moscow led the world-wide demonstrations with a parade of about two million persons past the tomb of Nikolai Lenin, the idol of communists the world over.

Spain's assault guards had a very tough day of it with clashes in five cities, and an aftermath of hundreds of arrests and many bashed heads.

Paris, London, Berlin and other cities in Europe were not without their lists of minor casualties and arrests.

North America had no trouble at all. Probably the largest demonstrations were in New York, where 40,000 communists braved a rainstorm to honor the workers' day, and in Mexico City, where 20,000 paraded past the presidential palace in review.

South America was not so fortunate, although disturbances occurred only in Santiago, Chile. There all police had to do was fire their sidearms into the air to disperse noisy demonstrators. There were rumors of a big communist coup to day, however, and authorities said they were ready.

Havana police reserves rushed about 1,000 communists in a downtown street and arrested a score or more after seizing red banners with anti-government slogans. There were Australian communists chased Acting Premier Thomas Tunncliffe, of Victoria, out of Yarrabank, but he and his party were rescued by police and escorted to Melbourne.

NEW YORK, May 1.—(UP)—Social revolutionists observed May Day throughout the world today with a cheerful absence of physical conflict and only a few threatening demonstrations against their traditional enemies, the police.

In a year when economic chaos and unemployment was popularly supposed to stir class rancor to fever heat, and millions of hitherto bourgeois workers had been counted on to swell the armies of discontented, both European and American evidences of flaming revolutionary emotion were lacking.

Rain, falling on the bare heads of demonstrators with less force but more persuasiveness than a policeman's club, dampened the enthusiasm.

Parenthood Tightens Star's Box Office Grip

HOLLYWOOD, May 1.—(UP)—Intrinsic advantages of parenthood have become, surprisingly to many, as helpful a part of the Hollywood career as good voices when the films went vocal.

Some of the brightest of stars, hitherto of recent offstage fame, their popularity as reflected at the box office is increased, indicating motherhood or fatherhood in anything but an impairment to art and glamor. Others are happily public in their announcement of impending interesting events.

When Norma Shearer added motherhood to her accomplishments three years ago, some of her friends were doubtful. But it wasn't long before everyone knew she had become even more alluring to fans.

Bebe Daniels and Bessie Love were next among the more notable, and then Vivian Duncan. Their popularity grew.

TWO WEST POINT CADETS ARE LOST ON CANOE VOYAGE

WEST POINT, N. Y., May 1.—(UP)—Two second-year cadets of the United States Military Academy were missing tonight following the discovery of their overturned canoe in the Hudson river.

The cadets, Alan J. Light and Leo A. Skein, set out in a heavy pontoon canoe yesterday, and were last seen near Hannan's island, north of the academy, headed toward Storm King mountain. A strong wind was whipping the river.

Their canoe was discovered drifting upside down near Newburgh early today. Word of the discovery did not reach the military academy until this afternoon, more than 24 hours after the cadets set out on the river.

West Point officers, who had been directing an intensive search for the cadets, went to the scene immediately and identified the canoe. It had been pulled ashore two miles north of the Newburgh Yacht Club.

The search then was centered in that vicinity. An army amphibious landing craft, commanded by Lt. J. M. Weikert, cruised up and down from Hannan's island, northward, while canoe squads manned by fellow cadets explored the river edges and land patrols scouted along both banks.

The capsized canoe was found by a blackhawk, piloted by Lt. J. M. Weikert, unaware of the search, he neglected to inform Newburgh police until several hours later.

Both Light and Skein were qualified swimmers. Before setting out on the river they had donned bathing suits and sweaters, leaving their cadet uniforms at the canoe house on the north shore.

First anxiety for them was felt when they failed to appear for supper that evening. A heavy fog, however, kept the wind and rough weather to beach their canoe some distance from the academy. They were reported whereabouts once by telephone.

When no similar word was received from Light and Skein squads of enlisted men and officers were sent out to search the river banks while others put out in a powerboat, rowboats, and all other available craft.

Ford Plant to Put On 1,000 Men This Week

The Atlanta plant of the Ford Motor Company will reopen this morning, turning out the new model cars. J. H. Wood, manager of the plant, announced that 250 men would be employed today, an additional 250 Tuesday, with a like number being added Wednesday.

The company will turn out 67 new cars today, gradually increasing its production to 300 cars which Mr. Wood said will be turned out Friday.

"We will begin rather slowly, but will be running full time by the end of the week," Mr. Wood said.

Seven Under Arrest, Others Sought In Theft of Million Barrels of Oil

GLADEWATER, Texas, May 1.—(UP)—Seven men were under arrest and others were sought by state authorities today in connection with the asserted theft of a million barrels of crude oil from wells of the east Texas field in the last seven months. Texas rangers and national guardsmen, acting on charges filed before a Longview, Texas, justice of the peace by John Taylor, district attorney of Gregg county, began a series of wholesale raids here early today.

Colonel L. S. Davidson, commander of the martial law area of the field, said the men were sought for their part in the theft of a million barrels of oil from wells of the east Texas field in the last seven months.

CALIFORNIA HOLDS POLITICAL "SPOT" IN TUESDAY VOTE

Roosevelt, Smith and Gar- ner in Same Race for First Time in Golden State Primary.

BY D. HAROLD OLIVER.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(UP)—The free-for-all contest for the democratic presidential nomination swings this week to California, where on Tuesday Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith and Charles McNary will clash for 44 delegates and tremendous prestige that will go with victory.

Another 44 batch of delegates, a majority of which are almost certain to line up behind the dominant candidacy of Governor Roosevelt, will be named during the week in Alabama, South Dakota and Rhode Island.

On the republican side, with 153 delegates to be named in the first week of May's big presidential calendar, the three-way democratic contest is another big block to add to his 701 claimed and pledged convention votes, 60 of which were instructed for him in conventions yesterday in Minnesota, Arizona, Nevada, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Hoover Faces Test.

The president, however, faces his first clear-cut contest in a pre-convention primary tomorrow in Maryland. He and Joseph I. France, former Maryland senator, who disputes Mr. Hoover's right to a batch of delegates, will clash in the state.

With the president unopposed for his state's 47 delegates in Tuesday's primary, the three-way democratic contest on the Pacific coast will be watched with three possibilities in view.

Mr. Roosevelt victory will be hailed as starting up again his parade toward the nomination which Smith halted by capturing the Massachusetts delegation of 36 and an undercounted number in Pennsylvania.

Should Smith win, the "chock" he said he placed under the Roosevelt banner last week will practically double in size.

Garner's Chance.

A Garner victory will immediately take him out of the favorite son class and place him in the contest for the nomination on about a par with Smith as far as delegates are concerned.

With Smith's forces well on the way to coral Connecticut's 16 delegates, May 16, based on his large majorities in town and district caucuses, the 1928 standard bearer stands a good chance of winning 10 more delegates.

SESSIONS TO OPEN ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Sixth Annual Institute Begins Discussions To- day at Athens.

ATHENS, Ga., May 1.—(UP)—The sixth annual session of the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Georgia convened tomorrow with a lecture on the state of the world and an address at the university chapel by President Harold G. Moulton, of the Brookings Institution, Washington, D. C.

President Moulton will discuss the problem of international economic rehabilitation. Tuesday he will give a lecture on war debts and reparations. Among the subjects to be discussed during the first week are the problems of German foreign policy and current political conditions in Germany by Herbert Kraus, professor of international law at the University of Gottingen, Germany.

A committee appointed by the state legislature on judicial and legislative reform will hold sessions from Tuesday through Friday. It is conducting hearings for the purpose of reporting to the next general assembly on revision of Georgia's judicial structure.

Speaker Arlie D. Tucker, of Nashville; Judge Blanton Fortson, of Athens; Senator E. M. Williams, of Macon; and Representative C. P. Goodrich, of Griffin, will participate in the discussions of the Georgia judicial system.

Miller Kidnap Hunt Shifted to Gangdom

JOLIET, Ill., May 1.—(UP)—Search for the kidnapers of Gustav Miller, 22, shifted to Chicago's gangland today, as the police hunted for a wholesale grocer, reportedly waited with $50,000 ready for ransom payment.

The father, Max Miller, was reported to have received a telephone call today from the west side of Chicago, in the district frequented by the "42" gang and other criminals. Miller refused to discuss the abduction, even when he was offered three barrels of allowed to go through unchecked.

Eighteen oil men, deputy superintendents of the Texas state railroad commission, which directs oil production, a railroad agent and others were named in 215 separate complaints.

French Election Shows Trend Toward Radicals

PARIS, May 2.—(Monday).—(UP)—French voters swung toward the left yesterday in selecting a new chamber of deputies and the fate of Premier Andre Tardieu's government was in the balance.

Incomplete returns showed 217 of the 615 seats filled, showing 283 seats into the run-off election next Sunday, which gave more vitality to the important in determining the government's ultimate fate. Returns from only 500 seats were available early today.

Timed-off elections will be held next Sunday, May 8, in constituencies which failed to give the leading candidate a clear majority on the first ballot. On the second ballot a mere plurality will suffice.

The vote today was unusually heavy. Newspapers forecast a total turnout of 9,000,000, or about 82 per cent of the qualified electorate, as compared with the 70 per cent to 75 per cent vote ordinarily cast in past elections.

Despite the fact that today was May Day, traditional holiday of the workers in Europe, when radical groups seek to make display of labor's solidarity with occasional disorders, there were only minor disturbances in isolated spots.

Two were seriously injured and 33 arrested. One was hurt in a fight between communists and young patriots at the town hall of Ivry, a suburb of Paris. Thirteen were arrested there. A political henchman was shot in the stomach.

Rain washed out most of the communist May Day demonstrations. A few electoral rallies were held in the morning in the Chamber of Deputies.

The communists called for a strike in the Chamber of Deputies. The vote was 615 in the Chamber of Deputies. The vote was 615 in the Chamber of Deputies.

CURTIS RETURNS, REMAINS SILENT AT WARM SPRINGS

NORFOLK, Va., May 1.—(UP)—John Hughes Curtis, intermediary in the Edmund Kilduff case, returned to Norfolk tonight from a cruise aboard the yacht, Maroon, and refused to give out any information concerning the case.

Curtis declined to state how he returned to Norfolk, whether aboard the Maroon or by plane. He indicated, however, that he had been aboard the Maroon for at least part of the time.

Admiral Burrage, when questioned said, "Nothing to give out." He added, however, that a statement might be made later.

ROOSEVELT RESTS AT WARM SPRINGS

BY WALTER T. BROWN.
Associated Press Staff Correspondent.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., May 1.—(UP)—Governor Roosevelt today appeared more interested in the appointments and location of his new cottage here than in Tuesday's California primary.

He was seen here today again with Speaker John N. Garner for delegates to the democratic national convention.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had not communicated lately with any of his national or California leaders and did not expect to do so until the Pacific coast state. The prize for the winner is 44 delegates pledged to support him at the convention.

Mr. Roosevelt spent today quietly in his new cottage on the Warm Springs Foundation reservation where from the rear terrace one looks across a valley to Piley park.

A few neighbors dropped in to see Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, who arrived here tonight for the first time.

The governor, however, immediately waived aside all political comment, adding to his remark that he had been out of touch with California and that he had not read the Sunday papers.

"I picked this spot when I first came to Warm Springs in 1924," the governor said. "I liked it."

MORE TAXES SEEN AS HOUSE WRECKS ECONOMY MOVES

Larger Assembly's Rough Handling of Omnibus Bill Expected To Nec- essitate More Revenue.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(UP)—With the $200,000,000 economy legislation all but wrecked in the turbulent house, senate chieftains today turned their eyes toward the possibility of being forced to find more revenue through additions to the billion-dollar tax bill.

Unitedly, however, leaders from both ends of the capitol promised prompt disposition of the vital but unpopular budget-balancing legislation. Speed is essential if the goal of adjournment by June 10—allowing but 34 more working days and nights—is to be attained.

The revenue-raising bill will reach the senate some time this week from the rapid-working finance committee, but some little delay may ensue as a result of the probable necessity for seeking out revenue to replace that thrown out of the economy bill.

Still fighting for the remaining provisions of the ruined retrenchment measure, house leaders will resume debate on it Tuesday. They will try to retrieve some of the $117,000,000 in economies stricken out by calling later for roll call votes on the eliminated provisions.

Favor Prompt Action.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the minority pilot, both declared today for prompt action on the tax measure once it reaches the senate. Early action, they believed, would support that course.

The finance committee has yet to pass on the controversial stock transfer levy and admissions tax. A modification of the stock transfer levy—so bitterly opposed by Wall Street—is in prospect but there is no likelihood that it will be eliminated entirely.

Where to turn for more revenue is perplexing the committee, which already has decided to tap pari-mutuel race tickets as one new source. An import tax on rubber, estimated to yield $50,000,000 annually, also is being considered.

Reduction in expenditures by $300,000,000 was conceded to be necessary to make the billion-dollar revenue bill pass. The house balance sheet of the 1933 budget.

Congress is making considerable reductions in the regular appropriation bills. The main hope was placed on the omnibus economy bill.

More Taxes.

Thus the necessity for perhaps even more taxes being added by the senate. Senator Reid, republican, Pennsylvania, is using this lever to press his renewed vigor for the controversial sales tax. Both republican and dem-

EXTRA HELP 'ETO TO BE STAINED

Council Expected To Con- cur in Recommendation on Marshal's Office.

Council this afternoon is expected to concur in Mayor James L. Key's most recent economy move, veto of a proposal to set up $900 for employment of two additional clerks in the office of City Marshal J. Ben Daniel.

The only other matter of importance to face the semi-monthly meeting is a proposal to re-establish Spring street as the regular route of Morningstar buses.

Key vetoed the extra appropriation for the marshal's office following a report of W. Evans Chambers, survey expert, who held that the work of the clerks could be absorbed by additional clerks in the marshal's office.

Citizens on Eleventh street, in the vicinity of the O'Keefe Junior High school, and in the O'Keefe drive section, have protested vigorously against the change in the routing of the buses along Peachtree and West Peachtree streets. They contend that such a move would cause an abnormal traffic congestion at Peachtree and Ellis streets.

Councilman Claude L. Barwell, of the sixth ward, is author of a resolution to re-establish Spring street as the route, and the measure has been referred to the traffic committee for consideration. It is expected to face council again this afternoon for final action.

Routine matters from various council committees are slated to furnish the other councilmatic business for the session.

Much Desired Splitting of Atom Accomplished by Young Britons

LONDON, May 1.—(UP)—Lord Rutherford, one of the world's foremost scientists, today disclosed that two young Cambridge physicists had achieved one of the greatest goals of all scientific research.

They split an atom.

This is not to be confused with the accomplishment of Dr. Carl Anderson, at the California Institute of Technology, who devised an electromagnet last year which made possible the photographing of an atom's nucleus while it was being disintegrated by the cosmic rays.

U. S. Urged To Release 'Forgotten' $100,000,000

CHICAGO, May 1.—(UP)—Economist, amateur and professional, demanded tonight that congress put to use one hundred million gold dollars "forgotten" by the United States treasury department.

The "forgotten" gold is deep in the vaults of the treasury, it was said, to back up millions in paper currency which long since has been destroyed in many major disasters, train, automobile, ship and airplane wrecks, or has disappeared after being hidden by those who have died and by thieves now serving prison sentences.

The speaker of Joseph Kahahawai, a Hawaiian, urged that congress pass a house petition which would declare these lost millions gold currency by release millions in gold currency reserves for other purposes.

MRS. MASSIE'S AID PLEGGED TO STATE IN ASSAULT TRIAL

Lieutenant's Wife Will Testify at Retrial De- spite Conviction of Hus- band and Mother.

HONOLULU, May 1.—(UP)—Robert Bell, of New York, gave assurance today that Mrs. Thalia Massie, his niece and the wife of the convicted "honor" slayer of Joseph Kahahawai, will testify at the retrial of four Hawaiians charged with assaulting her last September 12.

Bell is the first trial, which carried the story in full in both its English and Japanese sections.

Under Guard.

The alleged assailants of Mrs. Massie, who was under guard, spent part of the time in jail for keeping and, since Friday's verdict, have remained out of sight in their homes. The trial is expected to begin tomorrow.

A conference will be held tomorrow between representatives of the attorney general's office and the public prosecutor to fix a date for the beginning of the new trial. Deputy Attorney General Harold Kay said it might start within a fortnight.

The conference also was expected to determine whether Kelley, who obtained Friday's convictions by his rigorous prosecution, would conduct the retrial's case in the assault trial. Kelley declined today to say whether he would handle the retrial.

Navy officials held Kelley's conduct in the murder cases should remove him from the prosecution of

Painting by Tiepolo Given Museum; Key Promises Aid to Arts by City

A large crowd of Atlanta art patrons gathered at High Museum of Art Sunday afternoon to see a great painting by an old Venetian master and hear indications that art patronage on the part of the Atlanta municipal government will be a reality in the future.

The painting, "The Offering of the Matronia," by Giovanni Battista Tiepolo, last of the colorful Venetian artists, was the gift of Samuel Henry Kress, founder of the Kress chain stores and noted art patron. Hugh Richardson presented the work for Mr. Kress and Judge Price Gilbert, of the Georgia supreme court, accepted for the museum. Mayor James L. Key accepted for the city of Atlanta, paying tribute to the arts and asserting that no city can afford to overlook the proper evaluation of art.

J. J. Haverty, president of the Atlanta Art Association and the High Museum, acted as master of ceremonies and presented the speakers. Miss Laura Radcliffe Hill unveiled the painting, a work typical of the genius of a colorful and decorative period. When the painting—a work more than 200 years old—was revealed, an audience that overran the display saluted it with a roar of applause indicative of appreciation.

Mayor Key said that cities should encourage the development of the arts and indicated that in the future the city government here will lend financial aid to development of beauty as found in the arts.

To close the ceremonies Sunday afternoon L. P. Skidmore, director of the museum, gave a description of the painting, related its allegorical qualities, and gave a sketch of the artist.

Man Confesses Crime Charged to Prisoner

MIAMI, Fla., May 1.—(AP)—Clarence D. Cason, 26, under death sentence for the New Year's Eve murder of Frank D. Palmer, drug addict, confessed today to a holdup for which another man is serving a 20-year term in prison.

In a signed statement made to Sheriff M. P. Lehman and G. A. Worley Jr., assistant county solicitor, Cason said C. L. Elrod, now in Broward county jail following conviction for the holdup, was not one of two men who were with Cason when the robbery was committed.

Music Week Commemoration To Be Continued Here Today

Many Concerts Planned for Atlanta and Decatur in Churches, Schools and Studios.

Beginning Sunday, when many brilliant concerts were presented throughout the day, National Music Week will be continued today by the outstanding musicians of Atlanta and Decatur, with a number of unusual programs featuring the day.

At 10 o'clock this morning special chapel exercises will be held at Columbia Seminary.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon the police band, under the direction of John A. Scharf, will give a band concert on the city hall plaza.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Lillouise Smith Green will present Hermina Baum, violinist, and Miss Sara Croft Smith, pianist, in a recital, assisted by J. D. Pittman, in her studio at Druid Hills school.

The orchestra of the Druid Hills High school will give a musical program at each chapel exercise during the week, and also will present the "Triumphal March" from Aida, and Mozart's "Minuet." The glee club will give a number of solos and chorus numbers.

At 5 p. m. a pipe organ recital will be given by Dr. Ben J. Potter, organist, Trinity Methodist church, and broadcast over WSB.

At 6 p. m. vesper services will be held at the Decatur Orphan's Home.

At 8 p. m. Dr. Mark Burrows, of the faculty of Oglethorpe University, will give a lecture on "History and Appreciation of Music" over WJTL.

At 8 p. m. the Pi Mu, musical society, will hold its monthly meeting at the studio of Dorothy J. Waldman, 730 Park drive, N. E.

The program includes piano music representing each separate stage in the progress of music in America, beginning with the hymn tune, "Windward," which was sung by the "Pursons," and "The Sun Worshippers," a Zuni Indian melody.

Other Indian songs transcribed for the piano, American folk tunes and negro spirituals will be played by the advanced pupils of Miss Waldman.

At 8:30 p. m. there will be a concert at the Candler hotel, Decatur, under the direction of Mrs. S. R. Christie Jr.

At 9:45 p. m. a recital by John Peacock, lyric-baritone, will be broadcast over station WSB.

TENOR TOM MOORE WILL SING TONIGHT AT WESLEY CHURCH

Tom Moore, internationally famous Irish tenor, in our languages during his concert at 8:30 o'clock tonight at the Wesley Memorial auditorium, it was announced. His program will include selections in French, German, Italian and English.

Though in his early thirties, Moore, who is a great-grandson of Thomas Moore, the Irish poet, is widely known for his appearances in opera, oratorio, concerts, and over the radio. Many requests from Atlantans have been received by Moore, and will be placed on the program, it was said.

Classical pieces will be interspersed with old Irish and southern melodies in an effort to please a varied audience. As encores Moore announced that he would sing request numbers such as "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia," "Mother Machree," "One Alone" and "The Last Rose of Summer." He will be accompanied by Annie Mae Morton. Mrs. Winnie Ream Boyd will read several special groups.

2 POLICEMEN HURT; ARMY OFFICER HELD

Two policemen were severely injured and an army officer charged with reckless driving early Sunday morning as the result of an automobile accident at Peters and McDaniel streets according to police reports.

Policemen P. L. Smith and C. R. Chewing, on duty in that section, had just stopped their car beside that of Lieutenant C. F. Allen, of the police department, they said, when a machine operated by Lieutenant Harry B. McHugh, United States army, attached to Fort Benning, crashed into them from behind. The force of the collision threw the police car into a telephone pole, it was said.

Smith and Chewing were both severely cut and bruised and were taken to Grady hospital for treatment. Lieutenant McHugh was released on his own recognizance.

CLARKSON ESSAYS ON SLAVE TRAFFIC GIVEN ATLANTA U.

Atlanta University, whose new library was formally dedicated Saturday afternoon, has become the possessor of a uniquely valuable collection of documents and other items bearing on the life of Thomas Clarkson, noted English abolitionist, whose activities during the eighteenth century were instrumental in the outlawing of negro slavery.

The collection has been brought to Atlanta through the efforts of Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of the Washington (D. C.) cathedral, and the Phelps-Stokes Fund, which made an appropriation to Atlanta University for its purchase. President John Hope announced Sunday the dedicatory gift of the collection, consisting of 16 items.

Chief items in the collection are Clarkson's essay on slavery, written in Latin in his own hand, and a copy of the same, apparently in his own handwriting, with the following endorsement: "A complete copy of the Latin essay on the S. trade which gained the first prize at Cambridge in about 1785 and which led to efforts which afterwards accomplished the abolition of it." Enclosing these items is a folder with the statement in Clarkson's handwriting in which he says that the essay "may be said to have been the cause of all that has been done on the subject (i. e., abolition of slavery) throughout the whole world."

Other items include an 1826 edition of the New Testament with a dedication by Thomas Clarkson, an anti-slavery medal with bas relief of Clarkson, a Wedgwood anti-slavery medal, journals and letters, and considerable other material bearing on his life.

GRiffin IS SELECTED FOR I. O. O. F. MEETING

Annual convention of the grand lodge of Georgia, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will be held in Griffin May 25-26, it was decided Sunday afternoon by the cabinet of Grand Master M. D. Collins, of Fairburn, which met at the Ansley hotel.

Officials of the order said Griffin was chosen because visitors would be able to see the Robert T. Daniel Memorial home, which is located there. Augusta was originally named for the 1932 convention, but was unable to entertain the meeting, it was said.

The organizations attending the convention, beside the grand lodge of Georgia, will be the grand encampment, and the grand assembly of Rebekah, according to Newman Lasser, chairman of the publicity committee.

TORNADO IN SUMTER DOES $3,000 DAMAGE

No Lives Lost as Twister
Sweeps Through Two Georgia Counties.

AMERICUS, Ga., May 1.—(P)—Damage estimated at more than $3,000 was done by a tornado that devastated a wide stretch of territory in Sumter and Marion counties near Americus late Saturday. Information regarding the storm reached Americus early today and numbers of residents here visited the scene, finding houses in ruins, wires down and fences swept away.

There was no loss of human life. A mule and cow on the Bahnsen farm were killed. At the former Calvin Mayes place a house occupied by Emmett Hart, driver of the Concord school truck, was demolished. Everything in the house was blown away, including the furnishings and only a few hens on the yard at the home were left unharmed.

Members of the Hart family were in Americus at the time of the storm and returned to find their home in ruins.

The storm struck the Hart home from the southwest about 3 o'clock and swept rapidly in a northeasterly direction to the farm of Dr. Peter G. H. Bahnsen, former state veterinarian, where the greatest damage reported was done. John Bahnsen, son of Dr. Bahnsen, and three negroes were seated in a house on the Bahnsen farm when the twister appeared and all miraculously escaped unhurt. The main house on this place, together with three tenant houses were destroyed and a valuable mule and cow killed, the damage there being estimated at approximately $2,000.

Between the Hart and Bahnsen farms a trail of devastation was left with fences blown down, much valuable timber leveled and outbuildings damaged. The section swept by the tornado lies 15 miles northwest of Americus and is sparsely settled, with large areas devoted to cattle raising. Later reports may increase the extent of damage sustained.

SHEETS TO ADDRESS LIVE STOCK GATHERING

Authority on Beef Cattle on Program at Moultrie
Field Day.

MOULTRIE, Ga., May 1.—According to an announcement by F. R. Edwards, animal husbandman, Georgia experiment station, E. W. Sheets, head of the division of animal husbandry, United States bureau of animal industry, has accepted an invitation to make an address here on May 4 at the livestock field day. Mr. Sheets is one of the country's foremost authorities on livestock, especially beef cattle, and he is particularly interested in this development in the south, said Mr. Edwards.

The fact that Mr. Sheets is coming from Washington, D. C., is regarded here as indicating the importance he attaches to the livestock field day to be held on May 4. Livestock men of the south will be particularly gratified to know that such an outstanding authority on livestock will make an address on that occasion. The subject of Mr. Sheets' address has not been announced.

Baccalaureate Sermon. Dr. W. F. Hinesley, pastor of the Central Baptist church of Waycross, delivered the annual baccalaureate sermon for the Warehoro High school, Sunday, launching the commencement program which will be concluded Friday night with the formal presentation of diplomas.

Town of Summerville Boasts Prosperity Despite Depression

SUMMERVILLE, Ga., May 1.—maintained continuous operations during the period commonly referred to as "the depression." And at Trion a large addition to the already immense mill has been built and put into operation, giving employment to many new hands.

The banks at Summerville and Trion are in a sound condition and the deposits and resources have shown that the people of this section are saving some money and have confidence in the banks.

Merchants are doing good business, as might be shown by the fact that there is not a vacant store building in the city, and recently the garage building on Commerce street, formerly occupied by the Citizens Auto Company, was leased by the firm of Abney, Edge & Cochran, of Lafayette, and converted into a modern grocery store and meat market.

There are no vacant residences in the city and several of the larger residences have been turned into apartments, giving homes to anywhere from two to four families. Quite a number of new and modern homes have been built here during the past few months and others are under construction.

Summerville's industrial plants furnish a regular pay roll, but this city, being the county seat and located approximately in the center of the county, has the advantages afforded by the pay rolls of the Berryton Mills, four miles southwest of this place, and the Trion Mills five miles to the north, both of which have

LOUIE NEWTON SPEAKS TO BERRY GRADUATES

ROME, Ga., May 1.—(P)—Dr. Louie D. Newton, pastor of the Druid Hills Baptist church of Atlanta, today told the graduating classes at the Martha Berry College and schools the path of progress follows self-renewal and the road of retrogression is based on self-assertion.

Addressing the graduates, alumni and friends of the school in the annual baccalaureate sermon, Dr. Newton said Abel typified self-renewal as opposed to his brother Cain and their examples could be followed through time since.

Commencement week exercises began with the gathering of alumni yesterday. Tomorrow class day programs will be given and Tuesday the annual commencement address be delivered by Dr. Henry Nelson Snyder, president of Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C.

games will be played on the new field.

Summerville is located in a splendid farming section, and while farmers have faced two successive years of adverse conditions, they are in much better condition now than they were a year ago, due to the fact that they have learned to produce at home many items that they had previously been buying. It is said that there is more meat, more corn, peas, beans, hay, canned fruits and vegetables in the county than ever before, and the poultry business has become a very profitable factor in the county, and the dairy business is not far behind.

TWO YOUTHS ARE HELD IN POSTAL ROBBERY

MIAMI, Fla., May 1.—(P)—Two boys, 16 and 17 years old and said by officers to have come here from California, were held by postal officials today in charges of robbing the post-office at Pirate's Cove of $421 in cash, 99 one-cent stamps and 100 air mail stamps.

Agents refused to give the names of the boys, who were arrested on a train here.

VICTIMS OF ACCIDENT IN SERIOUS CONDITION

WAYCROSS, Ga., May 1.—(P)—Four victims of a highway crash in which two men died near here last night are regarded as in a serious condition, two of them with a bare chance for recovery, it was reported from a local hospital tonight.

Roy L. Wood, cotton mill superintendent of Laurens, S. C., and G. B. Farmer, produce dealer of Toccoa, Ga., are the dead. W. W. Splawn and W. F. Gaston, of Laurens, are suffering from dangerous injuries, both believed to have received fractured skulls. P. C. Pierce, of Laurens, also is seriously hurt but it is thought will recover unless internal injuries develop. John Walker, of Toccoa, is suffering from a crushed leg and hip, but there is a fair chance of his recovery. The crash occurred 18 miles south of Waycross on the Jacksonville highway last night. G. B. Farmer, his son, Paul, and his business partner, John Walker, were traveling north with a load of oranges bought at Deland, Fla. Wood, Splawn, Gaston and Pierce were traveling south in a sedan, en route to Key West, Fla., on a pleasure trip. The cause of the crash is unknown.

ANDERSON RESIGNS

AS G. O. P. DELEGATE

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 1.—(P)—A. S. Anderson, assistant supervisor of the district bureau of industrial alcohol, has resigned as a delegate from the first Georgia district to the republican national convention. His place will be taken by Fred Flanders, United States marshal, who was elected alternate.

Mr. Anderson said he was eliminated from active participation in politics because his office came under civil service regulations. Federal marshals are not under the jurisdiction of the civil service.

CALHOUN MAN SHOT
AT FILLING STATION
CARTERSVILLE, Ga., May 1.—George Silks, 30, a Calhoun merchant, was shot and probably fatally wounded at a filling station five miles north of here late Sunday evening. George Lanier, proprietor of the station, admitted firing the shots and Sheriff Gaddis and other officers investigating the affair pronounced it a justifiable shooting and released Lanier upon his own recognizance.

Silks is said to have been drinking heavily and upon entering the filling station made objectionable advances upon women customers and Lanier protested. Lanier fired two shots into Silks' abdomen and doctors here said he was in such a critical condition he was rushed to Rome late Sunday night for emergency operation. Silks has a wife and daughter in Calhoun, where he is well known.

'TEACH HOW TO LIVE,' SAYS ART EDUCATOR

ATHENS, May 1.—Educators today believe that we should teach our children how to live, as well as how to make a living. Theodore M. Dillaway, director of the division of art education, Philadelphia public schools, told the Southeastern Art Association at its closing session here Saturday afternoon.

"We have come to accept John Ruskin's belief that the entire object of true education is to make people not merely do the right thing, but to enjoy the right thing; not merely industrious, but to love industry; not merely learned, but to love learning; not merely just, but to hunger and thirst after justice. We believe that we are developing finer characters in our children through their gaining appreciation of beauty in nature, in the fine arts, and in the arts of daily life. These are what Ruskin meant when he said 'the things that are right.'"

Mr. Dillaway said that "art teaching in our schools today is doing the eyes of our boys and girls to see and to know beauty in form and color in nature. We believe such appreciation incites spiritual growth. We are teaching children to enjoy works of art and to understand how to interpret them. The appreciation of the great masterpieces contributes much to the building of character."

Mr. Dillaway's subject was, "The Integration of Art in the School Curriculum." "Art education," he said, "should aim to express and interpret life situations and present-day life needs. The plan of unifying all learning experiences provides for the development of the necessary skill of learning, for the proper adjustment to environment and for the drawing out of creative capacities."

ATLANTA, GA., MAY 2, 1932.

DOES RUSSIA FACE ATTACK?

The reported reconciliation between Joseph Stalin and Leon Trotsky is being interpreted in some European chancelleries to mean that the soviet government is seriously concerned over persistent rumors that a united attack on Russia is being jointly instigated by Japan and the White Guard Russians of Paris, with the Balkan states ready to step in if the movement materializes.

Some weeks ago it was definitely intimated by the British foreign office that the Sino-Japanese trouble in Manchuria "might well turn out to be the prelude to a military undertaking on a much vaster scale," the reference undoubtedly being to a possible conflict between Russia and Japan.

Shortly afterwards General Miller, commander-in-chief of the White Guard headquarters in Paris, confidently boasted that the time had "finally arrived when an attempt would be made to wrest holy Russia from the grasp of the bandits in the Kremlin." Now reports from Warsaw tell of officers openly discussing "the coming campaign," with many physical evidences that something unusual is in the air.

The possibility that Japan has concluded a secret understanding with the western border states of the soviet union is not only suspected in Moscow, but has been openly discussed in Istvgia, the official organ of the soviet government.

Military commentators in Europe point out that the simultaneous launching by Japan of an attack on Siberia and by the combined forces of Poland and the White Guards on the Ukraine would place Russia, in view of her present economic condition, in a critical condition.

Japan's cynical attitude at the Geneva conference, the feverish activity of French armament factories, chief purveyors of the armies of the eastern European countries of Rumania, Poland and Czechoslovakia, and the announced intention of the soviet to "turn the 12,000,000 members of the trade union into a real auxiliary military fighting force as a reserve for the red army," are contributing factors to the growing belief that the soviet government may soon have to face its most serious attack.

A statesman thinks it a healthy sign that the depression is causing people to do more thinking. He wouldn't be so optimistic if he could know what they are thinking, however.

A MODERN MAGIC CARPET.

Orchids plucked in their native heath in the jungles of South America and gracing the corsage of a lady of North America two days later; bananas ripened on the trees in Brazil or Nicaragua on breakfast tables in New York, Chicago and Seattle; perishable foods, fruits and flowers of all kinds from the gardens of North America for the banquets of Buenos Aires and Rio de Janeiro, while nature's freshness is still upon them—these are some of the promises held out through the installation of an "aerial express" service by the great air lines now plying between the Americas.

The list of the merchandise already carried, according to the New York Herald, "includes cargo as varied as the ivory, apes and peacocks that the Tyrian galleys brought to King Solomon of old." But what a far cry it is from the two to four days now required to traverse the thousands of miles between the great metropolises of North and South America and the equal number of months that lumbering galleons took to go from one end of the Mediterranean to the other in olden days.

Now a physician can bring a patient from the Argentine to the great medical centers of the United States in scarcely more time than the trip from even a nearby point in the United States would have taken only a comparatively few years ago—or a business or financial expert from New York can bring vital counsel to Brazil, Chile or Peru in the span of a day or so.

Relations between North and South America are already being revolutionized by the development of air mail and passenger service, and commerce and industry in both countries is destined to be vastly profited as the intimacy of contact increases.

Especially will the southeastern section of the United States benefit from this development of intercontinental air travel and transportation. All ships carrying either passengers, mail or express intended for cities of all of the states east of the Mississippi river must come via the airports of Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas, and southern cities will profit accordingly.

That is one of the chief reasons why southern delegations in congress are fighting movements which might cripple these air lines, and why they should receive the full backing of all organizations and the public generally in their efforts.

DOLLAR REMAINS SOUND.

The soundness of our currency under the present reserves of gold is testified to by W. O. Woods, treasurer of the United States, before the Western Regional Savings conference of the American Bankers' Association.

Full and convincing assurance is given by this government official that "there is not the slightest danger that our paper currency will not be honored at par, unless perchance the system should be upset by legislators who would ignore all experience and cause a deluge of greenbacks to issue without an adequate gold reserve to honor it on demand."

In this warning, Treasurer Woods evidently had particular reference to the proposal of some advocates of the soldier bonus that it be paid by special issues of paper money, without accompanying increase in the gold reserves of the treasury.

Summarizing the monetary situation as resulting not from a lack of money but from the lack of proper circulation of that which exists, Mr. Woods says:

The treasury has been receiving a great many proposals for relieving the depression. Most of them are based on the assumption that there is not enough paper currency in existence. It is urged that the government should grind out greenbacks sufficient in quantity to meet all needs. It is truly astonishing that so many of our citizens consider that an increase in our paper currency regardless of quantity and regardless of gold being in possession to honor such paper on demand would cure our ills.

It is perfectly apparent that it is not because of insufficient money in the country; it is because what already exists is not available for the pressing needs of business. The depression is certainly not caused by a lack of currency or lack of gold, because there was more monetary gold in the paper currency a year after the depression started than there was any time during the period when stock prices were soaring.

Currency inflation, whether for the soldier bonus or for any other purpose, would undermine the value of all of our paper money and would have the immediate effect of a drop in prices of government securities of every nature.

The fact that the government's credit has been unimpaired, although it is now faced with a staggering deficit, is a priceless asset during the present time of world unrest.

The deficit has been caused by the following of wild and impractical schemes, and it is a certainty that congress, having awakened from its frenzied spending spree, will not undo everything that has been accomplished toward renewed stability by aiming a knockout blow at the dollar.

Sherwood Anderson says that women must save the country. And after reflecting for some time on the condition of the country, we're willing for them to save it and have it too.

Ambassador Mellon has declared that he intends to stock his London cellar to "live up to the customs of the country," but he didn't say which country he had in mind.

With two senators, a governor and various statehouse office-holders to be named in the September primary there will be no political depression in Georgia this summer.

"Continuous session of congress is being agitated." The agitating probably is being done by the congressmen who are afraid to go home after framing that tax bill.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

D'Annunzio's Wisdom Teeth.

Two months ago the fiery poet-aviator of Italy, Signor Gabriele D'Annunzio, had a toothache. A toothache is a bad thing, especially for a poet. Impossible to compose poems when you have a toothache, they say, which sounds reasonable. Well, Signor D'Annunzio did the wisest thing that could be done under the circumstances. He went to a dentist, one of those painless ones, no doubt.

After some exchange of compliments, not exactly poetic on Gabriele's part, the offending molar was jerked out. This is the way of dentists since the days of Adam and Eve; just jerk. That's one science which hasn't advanced an inch in 6,000 years we have records of.

The poet went home, but some weeks later, as he sat poring over the morning newspaper, he suddenly jumped up in a fury. What had he read? He had read that the Museum of Milan had acquired Signor D'Annunzio's wisdom tooth for a sum of 30,000 lire, a little more than a thousand dollars. As he raved and raged around the room he felt a sudden pang in the jaw. What was that? He swore he wouldn't go to see another dentist. We have all felt that way. The end we always capitulated, though.

For an hour or so D'Annunzio tried to get the tooth out himself. We have all tried that stunt. While he was putting around the room came a telegram, couched in polite language—from the curator of the Museum of Florence, requesting the poet, in the event he ever should have to part with another tooth, to send it to the museum. Then D'Annunzio became so angry that with one majestic, heroic and never-to-be-forgotten heave, he pulled the tooth out. He named the dentist. Now he's writing "Dentism."

Truth About Hitler Forces.

Why did President Hindenburg suddenly decide to give an order for the disbanding of Adolf Hitler's so-called "storm-troops"? It was his last executive act. Had those troops suddenly become so dangerous? Why weren't they disbanded long ago and why only Hitler's and not the rest of the army and the steel helmet and the reichsbanner troops also?

The answer is that Germany does not want to face a question of disarmament conference in Geneva about that well-drilled, powerful army of Adolf Hitler.

Under provisions of the peace treaty Germany may have a standing army of 100,000 men. She is clamoring, some cynics say, for a re-election. Some cynics say she is clamoring for a re-election. Some cynics say she is clamoring for a re-election. Some cynics say she is clamoring for a re-election.

This is reason for the sudden order for the disbandment of the Hitler forces.

Papini and The Pope.

Giovanni Papini, one-time ferocious anarchist and leader of the literary movement known as the "New Renaissance," who subsequently wrote a masterpiece "Life of Christ" and swung into the direction of Catholicism, said like so many prominent intellectuals and writers on the European continent, he was recently told that the pope would be happy to receive him. As a matter of fact, Papini himself had previously expressed the wish to be received by the pontiff.

When the opportunity finally presented itself, however, Giovanni demurred. He has never in his life worn a dress suit or a morning suit, and he wasn't going to start now. Someone told the pope about Papini's conscientious objection to formal dress. Plus, said Papini, I am a writer. He became the first man ever to be introduced in the presence of the pope in a lounge suit. The interview lasted over an hour.

Georgia Heroes Of the World War

By Sergeant L. E. Jaekel (All Rights Reserved.)

WILLIAM H. ECKEL, second lieutenant, 11th infantry, 30th division, American Expeditionary force, awarded the distinguished service cross for extraordinary heroism in action with the enemy near Fontenay, France, October 7, 1918.

When heavy fire was encountered from enemy machine guns located in a railroad cut, Lieutenant Eckel led his platoon in several successful attacks on these nests, personally killing one wounded and disarming others with his pistol, and disarming others in a hand-to-hand struggle. He then reorganized the captured position and held out against the enemy with such men as he had left, opening fire himself with an automatic rifle which he secured from a dead soldier.

While attempting to destroy some enemy machine gun nests in front of his platoon, this gallant officer was mortally wounded by a shell fragment.

Residence at present, Cedar-town, Ga. Posthumously awarded Medal presented to father, Hugh Eckel.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 1.—With Hank Mann and Harry Langdon back again in the forefront of comedy ranks it would seem that the ranks of the Olympic games were determined to make this very country laugh during the coming year.

Jack Oakie, W. C. Fields, Ben Turpin and George Barbier are all joining the ranks of the Olympic games picture, "On Your Mark," which will carry Langdon and Mann. It's the tale of a small fictitious country which sends a team of athletes to participate in the Olympic games program.

Olympic game comedies are the thing these days. But the studios are against a strange difficulty in trying to secure a funny title—or one that suggests fun, and still incorporates the word "Olympic." That word carries such dignity that it kills the laugh every time.

The Grand Hotel premiere did not break at the right place for this column but a couple of observations are not aside from the point. It will be hard to refuse Garbo whatever she wants—even that tea thousand—after which a performance by the very John Barrymore achieved an unusual emotional effect in their love scenes. They gave the audience the miracle of love renewing dead hearts—reminiscent of such resigned to the idea that such exquisite poignance would ever be theirs again. It was done with sincerity and finesse.

It is undoubtedly the most ambitious picture ever made, with the most imposing list of stars, billing Director Griffith in larger type than any of the actors—and justly.

Lionel Barrymore gave one of the best characterizations of his screen career, Kringle, played simply and with pathetic earnestness. Joan Crawford's "Flammeschien" was Park aware to a degree, with clipped sentences and a restrained, restrained, tailored mode. It did not damage the picture—there is too much in Grand Hotel for any one participant to credit with their own individuality.

Finally one actor suggested across the opportunity of showing us that she is an actress and not merely the girl Joan Crawford which she is.

Anderson Plan Provides Double Control of Liquor

BY JUNIUS B. WOOD.

CHICAGO, May 1.—Under the Anderson plan, which developed from the Wickham commission's study of the liquor problem, the sale of liquor in the United States would be controlled at two stages. One would be the producer and dealer and the other would be the consumer. The first control would regulate its traffic and the latter its use.

Each state would decide whether to adopt the plan or to continue prohibition. The plan is predicated on the adoption of the amendment proposed by the commission, which is the 18th amendment. In that case, congress could substitute the Anderson plan for the present national prohibition act.

In principle the Anderson plan follows the interstate commerce commission and federal reserve banks act as a system of control. It has many details, all or any of which might be changed later as occasion required, but its main theory is sound and its main aim is to be handled by private corporations, regulated by national and state commissions, while its use by each individual is left largely regulated by local authorities.

Congress would create a national commission on liquor control, to be bipartisan, to regulate the traffic and a national corporation to carry on the business. The setup in most of the states would be similar. Once having been set up, the national corporation would be a monopoly on the sale of liquor. It would be stock companies, the shares sold to the public, and, as no liquor business is legally in existence, the corporation would be organized under the regulations of the national and state commissions.

Dividends and salaries would be limited to a small amount to prevent any incentive to increase the business. The law and the different laws of each state. The national commission would have wide discretion to make regulations effective or to alter them as experience showed their weakness and defects. The plan is not proposed as perfection, as were the present prohibition laws, but as a first step toward a better system.

This plan takes the profit out of the liquor traffic, the illegal reward which now encourages it to thrive and grow. Profits under the plan would be small.

Healing Cults Cost Americans Approximately 125 Million Yearly

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(UP)—The people of the United States spend approximately $125,000,000 annually on healing cults, according to a report submitted today to the committee on education and labor by Louis S. Reed, an investigator.

The report estimated there were 30,150 practitioners in the ranks of osteopathy, chiropractors, naturopaths, Christian Science and new thought, and that the money they receive each year is 12 per cent of the total paid to the nation's 142,000 doctors of medicine.

Reed's report expressed the opinion that while religious healing is able to accomplish beneficial results, it may be harmful when practiced by persons unable to diagnose disease. He attributed the success of the healing cults to:

1. The inattention by some medical practitioners to minor illnesses and to ailments of the mind.

2. The fact that doctors cannot cure all diseases and persons who have failed to obtain help from regular doctors feel that little is lost by trying the healing cults.

3. The fact that many people are grievances to the king, and he dressed them up and sent them back.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

JO FIGURES THERE'S AN ELEMENT MISSING.

Jo Wolf, we'll call him, is the popular teller in the Golfplayers and Contract Bridge Hounds Trust Company. Jo's popularity does not depend entirely on who he is jovially with which he pushes it out to customers but to a large extent on his contagious smile. If I were Jo's dentist I'd like to carry a pencil with my office address on it behind his ear. At that, if Jo is open to general arrangements he's going to have some very desirable white space available on top in the near future, where anything but a hair tonic ad would fit in beautifully.

About three years ago he complained, my hair started falling out excessively. At the same time I started feeling unusually tired. My vitality was running low to the point that I visited to several doctors brought forth nothing but suggestions to diet and exercise. This I did with no results. Finally one doctor suggested a special examination, which disclosed . . .

Here Jo gets pretty deeply involved in morbid details which we'll skip lightly over, this being a health column, as most of our correspondents will not remember.

Such treatment eliminated this. Still life goes on as before with no noticeable change.

Can there be any element missing in the complete picture? I'm more concerned with the loss of hair than with my general health.

(End of quotation from Jo's lament.)

Now we hope our readers will not engage in a riot in fact we will let them stagger their letters by writing in alphabetical order, that is, all those surnames begin with A, B or C write today those in the D, E and F group tomorrow, and so on, to spread the strain on the mail—but Jo has started something, and this is it.

From London, Berlin, Paris, Madrid and South American capitals came reports of the peaceful New York show. There were no barricades, no clashes between the masses and the military, no threats of storming the strongholds of capitalism by force, and only a few scattering casualties due to purely local disorders.

Two communists were killed in Warsaw, Poland, and several were injured in Cordoba, Spain. Several were seriously injured in both cities, but a holiday spirit prevailed through the remainder of the two countries.

The most significant demonstration of the day occurred in Moscow, where the celebration took on a militaristic tinge. Strong statements were made of the soviet that the country may have to be defended from "capitalistic armies" punctuated the celebration.

May Day passed quietly in Washington where it was unnecessary to assign additional policemen to duty. President Hoover remained at his camp on the Rapidan, and there were no demonstrations in front of the White House, as in some years.

It had been reported that 800 communists were marching towards the capital, but that was a misstatement. In the afternoon when they had failed to make their appearance.

Chicago Socialists Split.

Four thousand workers, divided into the two opposing camps of socialism, marched in a parade in Chicago and gathered into separate mass meetings. Seventy-five police in addition to the regular forces, scattered along the route maintained order easily.

In Boston, 600 "hunger-marchers" staged a demonstration on the common under the watchful eye of 1,000 policemen assigned to special May Day duty. There was no untoward disturbance.

The entire police force of Detroit concentrated in the heart of the city to watch a parade by 100,000 unemployed men and women, led by communist sympathizers. Barricades were built, and gas bombs, patrolled the line of march.

Two thousand demonstrators marched up police force, and through the business section of Cleveland, and provoked no disturbance.

In South America, where the day is regarded as a public holiday, May Day passed as a day of riotousness, and no radical disturbances were reported. The rain fell incessantly throughout the morning and early afternoon in New York, but the equality of wetness for all classes of citizens.

The 70,000 who were denied the privilege of crowding into the Polo Grounds to watch the Giants in a double-header were more disappointed than the 70,000 who crowded into Union Square in the hope of getting in a hit-and-run kick at a policeman, which is the usual May Day sport of the young pioneers.

Mad at Norman Thomas.

The demonstration began at noon, with 400 police, 400 mounted on horseback, and 400 on foot, leading to the square. It had its spiritual focus in the "Free Money" movement. Banners were carried, and speakers and persons proclaimed.

Other images, less benign, caricatured Norman Thomas, socialist leader, and Matthew Woll, national labor leader, whom the communists now hold to be their arch-enemies. The spirit of the speakers was less bitter toward the leaders than it was toward the masses.

The thousands jammed into the square under the grinning faces of Police Commissioner Edward F. Mulrooney's Coscaes. The policemen, comfortable in their rubber ponchos, let them mill around as they chose, and obligingly cleared new lanes for oncoming hosts who wanted to get to the center of the already jammed plaza. In fact, they were packed in so thick that it would have been impossible to stoop down to pick up half a brick.

Each contingent of demonstrators was accompanied by an American flag. Sometimes the flag was so small as to be dwarfed by the crowd. The parade was headed by the clothing workers, approximately 20,000 strong, and the food and restaurant workers, who had 10,000 in the ranks.

Mooney's Name Heard Often. At 1 p. m. the speakers began addressing their fellows from a dozen wooden pulpits erected at various strategic points in the square. Each rostrum was decorated at one corner with the national emblem and at the other with the red flag of communism. But the rain made the flags droop and their colors run, and altogether the scene lacked the spontaneous gaiety that usually manifests itself in happy rioting.

The speech-making lasted three hours, at the end of which time, Governor Roosevelt, who was in the crowd, had been there to listen, and Mr. Mooney had been thoroughly vindicated, not by one but by at least a score of flat-waving orators ranging in age from 9 to 90.

There was a brief respite for the hoarse voices which the great crowd made under police supervision, to Rutgers square, on the lower east side. Another battalion of 400 police, under Inspector David J. McAutiffe, who is usually the master of

Record Turnover in Congress Assured for Next March 4

BY EUGENE B. DICKSON.

WASHINGTON, May 1.—(UP)—A record turnover in house and senate membership that will alter vastly the congressional complexion after next March 4, is indicated by the many unusual factors and issues bearing prominently in the primary and general election campaigns.

Already much house members as a result of early primary elections that have placed nearly a dozen on the " lame duck " list.

Although senate incumbents thus far have come through the early primary in good stead, it is generally conceded on Capitol Hill that some of the 34 to seek re-election will meet contentious political resistance.

The house is certain to lose 27 of its present members through the reapportionment that becomes effective with the 73rd congress. By the failure of the senate to ratify the new apportionment, many members will have to run at large.

Seventeen states take 27 seats from 21 states. The effect of the reapportionment already has been felt by the Pennsylvania, Nebraska and Illinois delegations, although the latter have failed to redistrict on its previous basis.

Many representatives, who in previous years have escaped having opponents in the primaries, are engaged in bitter campaigns today in many southern and mid-western states, where nomination virtually means election, there are numerous contests.

State Federation of Women's Clubs Meets in Columbus This Week

COLUMBUS, Ga., May 1.—When the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs convenes in biennial session in Columbus, May 2 to 6, the meeting will be entertained by the eight clubs composing the Columbus City Federation. Mrs. S. V. Sanford, of Athens, will preside over this thirty-sixth annual meeting, which is the fourth biennial convention of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs. Since the cordial invitation was extended, the federated women of Georgia have looked forward with happy anticipation to this opportunity to visit this friendly city. Knowing Columbus from former visits, all things will be in readiness for the visitors.

The high point of interest will be the election of all state officers for a two-year term of service, the installation to take place Friday morning. In interspersed with business sessions, which begin Wednesday morning, May 4, at 9:30 o'clock, a number of intriguing social affairs have been arranged. Tuesday evening, at 8 o'clock, the Columbus City Federation of Clubs entertains with a buffet supper at the Woman's Club. Following will be the brilliant opening program of the biennial at 8:15 o'clock, in the First Baptist church. Hostesses for the 1 o'clock luncheon at the City Club on Wednesday will be the three D. A.

Mrs. Johnson Heads Garden Division

At the recent meeting of West End Woman's Club Mrs. Chester W. Johnson was appointed to head the garden division for the ensuing year. Mrs. Johnson is an honorary life member of the West End Woman's Club, a past president, and since the organization of the club in 1923 has been active in the work of all departments of the club. She served efficiently and faithfully as grounds chairman the past year and is well qualified to fill her new office. Mrs. Johnson selected the following officers and chairmen to serve with her: Mrs. J. H. Phagan, president of the West End Woman's Club, member ex-officio; Mrs. Clark M. Settle, first vice chairman; Mrs. L. M. Ahern, second vice chairman; Mrs. C. E. Cole, recording secretary; Miss Gussie Eberhardt, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Carl F. Faires, treasurer; Mrs. Charles B. Fife, press representative; Mrs. W. C. Griffith, chairman of telephone committee; Mrs. W. N. Ponder, chairman of club flower garden; Miss Bessie J. Cook, scrapbook chairman; Mrs. George P. White, chairman of garden tours; Mrs. Beulah D. Manston, membership chairman, and Mrs. R. L. Grant Jr., library chairman. Mrs. George P. White, chairman of garden tours, will announce plans later for tours of outstanding Atlanta gardens.

Mother and Handsome Son

Camp Fire Girls Will Observe Child Health Week May 1-7

Camp Fire Girls will observe Child Health Week May 1-7 with programs on phases of health in each of the Atlanta groups, and guardians have been instructed along these lines by Mrs. J. Bonar White, vice president of the State Medical Auxiliary, in charge of child welfare. Camp Fire Girls have certain standards on health that are especially emphasized, and these standards become habits and lay foundations for health that enables them to get the best out of living. Health charts are provided and in this way a check is made on the progress.

Tashtima group of E. Rivers school will be instructed in care of the teeth by Mrs. Fred O. Conrad, and will have a tooth brush drill at the conclusion of the meeting. Chanyata group will study the care of the feet next Monday at Home Park school. Tandra group will be taught correct posture and the guardian, Miss Eleanor Davis, will give tests sent out by national headquarters of Camp Fire Girls for posture emphasizing the direct relation of posture to health.

Chesapeake group meet Friday, May 6, at John B. Gorgon school, having a lecture on the care of the hair and nails, and an informal tea will be held. Natash group of Emory University will be taught correct posture and walking by the guardian, Mrs. W. O. Speer. This group visited the museum at Emory University at the last meeting and were given a talk on poisonous and non-poisonous snakes, being shown specimen of each snake in this section. Wicawata group meets in the hut Monday at 3 o'clock and will have instruction in bandaging, passing requirements for their Firemakers' rank.

Other interesting projects will be the observing of May Day, and Mrs. Paul Gleason will take her group to Scottish Rite hospital today, each girl carrying a May basket to one of the sick children. Elita Tams group of Rock Spring Presbyterian church plans a May party to be given the week in May, and Quwanaut group will make May baskets, taking them to their elderly friends in the community.

Committee of awards meets Friday, May 6, at 8 o'clock in the local Camp Fire office, on the fifth floor of Davison-Paxon Co. Mrs. J. B. Richards, chairman, requests guardians who will have girls to come before the committee to secure blanks from the office and return them by Wednesday, May 4.

Atlantans Leave To Represent Y. W. C. A. at National Convention

Miss Carrie Lou Allgood, industrial secretary; Miss Louise Walker, of the Business Girls' League, and Miss Joyce Adams, of the industrial department of the Y. W. C. A., leave this evening to represent Atlanta at the twelfth national convention of the Y. W. C. A., which convenes in Minneapolis, Minn., May 5-11.

Celebrities of worldwide importance will appear on the program, including Miss C. M. Van Asch Van Wyck, of Utrecht, Holland, president of the World's Council of the Y. W. C. A., with headquarters in Geneva; Dr. Justin W. Nixon, minister, magazine writer and author; Dr. F. Ernest Johnson, head of Teachers' College, Columbia University, who, as head of the department of research and education of the Federal Council of Churches, directed an international survey of work of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. and who will speak on the philosophy of the association and the job of a Christian character-building organization.

Delegates from all over the United States and many foreign countries will gather at convention assemblies to discuss unemployment problems; the place of the Y. W. C. A. in the community; the most suitable program for character-building agencies; the present economic situation in the light of religion and facing new adjustments in family life, marriage, relations of sex, etc. In preparation for these discussions, hundreds of questionnaires were sent out, determining conditions and problems in various sections. Each department of the Atlanta association sent to national board of the Y. W. C. A. in New York reports as to local unemployment, wages, recreational activities and other information.

Miss Allgood, appointed convention delegate for Georgia, and Miss Laura Powers, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. in Athens, and Mrs. W.

BOYS and GIRLS THE WONDERLAND OF OZ

The soldier unbarred the gate which swung open with a loud crash. "Run," shouted Tip, "go for the gate to the city and don't let anything stop you!" "All right," answered the Saw-Horse gruffly, and dashed away so suddenly that Tip had to gasp for breath and hold firmly to the post he had driven into the creature's neck. Several of the girls were knocked over by the Saw-Horse's mad rush, while others ran screaming out of the way.

One or two of them jabbed their knitting needles frantically at the escaping prisoners. Tip got one small prick in his left arm, but the needles had no effect upon the Scarecrow or Jack Pumpkinhead, who never even suspected they were being prodded. As for the Saw-Horse, he made a wonderful record, upsetting a fruit cart and finally howling over the new guardian of the gate—a fuzzy little fat woman appointed by General Jinjur.

Nor did the impetuous charger stop then. Once outside the Emerald City he dashed along the road with fast and violent leaps that shook the breath out of Tip and filled the Scarecrow with wonder. Jack had ridden at this mad rate once before, so he devoted every effort to holding on with both hands, undaring the jolting with the courage of a philosopher. "Slow him up!" shouted the Scarecrow. "My straw is all shaking down into my legs."

But Tip had no breath to speak, so the Saw-Horse continued his wild career with unabated speed. Presently they came to the banks of a wide river, and without pause the wooden steed gave one final leap and launched them all in mid-air. A second later they were bobbing about in the water, the horse struggling to find a resting-place for his feet. Worst of all Jack's pumpkin head came off and floated away and Tip did not notice it!

Culbertson on Contract The Hands Bid Around the World

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

The world's most gigantic Bridge game has recently been completed, more than 30,000 players in 33 countries participating in the World Bridge Olympic, held under the direction of the National Bridge Association, a corporation not for profit, organized for the promotion of Bridge. Sixteen hands, prepared in advance by Mrs. Culbertson, Messrs. Waldemar von Zedtwitz, Theodore A. Lightner and myself, were played simultaneously throughout the world.

In view of the widespread interest in these hands, I have decided to analyze the questions of bidding and play which arose in their play in this series of articles.

Hand No. 1 presented in the bidding a choice as to the correct final declaration, the choice being between playing the hand at a game declaration in spades or at a game declaration in no-trump. A study of the cards, of course, reveals that game cannot be made against the best defense at no-trump, and it requires delicate handling and the utilization of the entire trick-taking power of the North and South hands to fulfill the contract of four spades.

The principles of play exemplified are: First, the cutting of the line of communication between West, who has the Opening lead, and his partner in the East; second, the automatic elimination of one suit—diamonds—from both the Dummy and closed hands; third, the lead of an unnecessarily high card in a side suit, in order, later, to create an additional entry in the Dummy hand; fourth, the elimination of clubs from the West hand; and, fifth, the creation of an end-play situation, in order to fulfill the contract.

Par on this hand for North and South was four spades, bid and made. The hand and bidding were: South—Dealer.

The Approach principle. When a hand contains a biddable suit, even a four-card minor, the suit and not the no-trump should be preferred as an Opening bid.

2—With a partner strong enough to respond at all, South should insist upon playing the hand at a game contract. The bid of three no-trump offers the Responding Hand a choice as to the proper game declaration.

3—North's hand would lose 1 trick in value if played at no-trump. There is also the added danger of two weak unstopped suits.

In the play, West was directed to lead the diamond Queen, which is unquestionably the best lead on the hand. If East should attempt to obtain the lead by playing the King on this trick, then South must play the Ace, but if East plays a small diamond, then South, in order to fulfill his contract against the best defense, must refuse to win the first round of diamonds and take the second. The hand is then developed by leading the 8 of clubs from the closed hand and winning with the Ace in Dummy. The eight must be led in preference to the deuce, so that one of Dummy's small clubs will provide an additional entry, if needed, in the Dummy. The 9 of spades is next led from the Dummy, and when the finesse loses, West's best play is to return a trump, as the lead of any other suit might cost the defending players a trick.

South then draws the adverse trumps, taking the last round in Dummy, in order to finesse the clubs. When the club finesse wins, the Dummy hand is put in on the fourth club round by the lead of the deuce, in order to lead a heart from Dummy toward the closed hand. West, of course, wins this trick, but is helpless. His hand contains nothing but hearts and diamonds. To lead a diamond would permit South to discard a heart in one hand and ruff in the other; to lead a heart would give South the remaining heart tricks.

TODAY'S POINTER.

In determining whether a hand should be played at a suit or no-trump, the primary question is whether a greater number of tricks are available at the suit bid.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

Suppose you had a husband that was loving and kind and generous with you and was the same way with another woman, an old friend? Suppose every time you took a trip in the car he wanted her to go along and insisted in paying her way, wouldn't you be jealous and a little bit uneasy about the consequences? I married my husband knowing that he had a devoted friend in this woman, ten years older than he. He told me all about her before we were married. He even brought her to spend a week-end with me and took me to spend a week-end with her the year we were married. She is circumspect and not romantically interested in him. At first I accepted her at face value, feeling rather grateful to her for what she had meant to my husband. But then I began to be jealous of her. He discusses all his affairs with her, tells her most of his secret thoughts and cannot see why I resent it. I know he doesn't love her or he would have tried to marry her (I don't think she ever loved him before he met me). My resentment against her is rolling up like a thick cloud and I am fast getting to the point that I cannot be natural with her. What ought I to do?

ANSWER:

It is probably natural for a new wife to resent any intimacy between her husband and any other woman but it does seem from your own account of the situation that your jealousy and resentment against the friend are unreasonable. The very fact that your husband made no bones about his friendship for this woman, that he brought her to see you and gave you to understand that she was a part of his life ought to quiet your heart. It is principally the secret alliances that have in them the germ of infidelity.

A man instinctively conceals from his wife thoughts and emotions that might annoy her or arouse her suspicion of him or his conduct. Nothing that Solomon ever said showed more clearly his wisdom and his knowledge of the human heart than this: "Jealousy is as cruel as the grave." A man knows that there is no pain or contentment in the home with a jealous wife and he is not willing to subject himself to this cruelty if he can avoid it.

It is exceedingly difficult to reason calmly about a matter so close to the heart as this one. Yet there are some considerations that you would do well to face. It is nothing to your discredit as a wife that your husband craves association with an outsider. There are mighty few wives that can fully complement and supplement all different sides of a man's nature. The average man has some friend, male or female, on whom he depends and whom he loves. The fact that your husband happens to choose a woman instead of a man doesn't indicate anything but that he is one of those men that finds friendship most congenial, and comradeship easier with a woman than with a man. There are many such men, and good men, too, good husbands and tender lovers.

I am not sure but they are less apt to stumble and fall in "the way of all flesh" than these excessively masculine creatures that put their wives in one pigeon hole and keep all the rest of the desk themselves. Your husband has pursued quite a different course from that one. He has taken you into the innermost recesses of his life and invited you to share the other things that are in it.

Whether or not your feeling of resentment is justified, any display of such resentment might work havoc with your life. For your husband has in this woman an understanding friend, and if he comes to an impasse with you the logical thing for him to do is to turn to her. This above all things is the one thing that you do not want. You are fighting for complete possession of his life, his thoughts, his affection, his confidence, and if you are too greedy you may lose all. Why not be grateful, concealing your jealousy, controlling your fears, and cultivating friendship with the woman who is evidently anxious to keep your husband's friendship and to include you in the bargain?

If he had any improper thoughts about this friend, or if he had recognized in his relation to her any possibility of trouble or unhappiness in relation to you he would never have introduced her to his marriage in the intimate fashion in which he did. This much is perfectly clear.

PETRELS LEAD 3 DEPARTMENTS IN DIXIE LEAGUE

George Tops Batsmen,
Mitchell Heads Pitchers;
Best in Hitting.

Dixie League

Oglethorpe	W. L. Pct.
Auburn	6 3 .667
Florida	5 4 .556
Georgia	4 5 .444
Tech	3 6 .333

By Jack Troy.

With the leading hitting, leading pitcher, leading hitting team and the second best fielding outfit, Oglethorpe's superlative college nine, tied with Auburn for the Dixie league lead, is prepared for the pennant fight with Auburn, which will begin in a two-game series Friday and Saturday at the Plains, and is expected to end in a final two-game series here.

Only by making a clean sweep of all four games with Tech, which Oglethorpe and Auburn split even in the four games, could Georgia tie the leaders.

Charley George, a sophomore left fielder, is hitting the ball at a .485 clip to top all hitters. In addition, he is a top-ranking fielder.

MITCHELL MARCHES ON.
Charley Mitchell, veteran right-hander, who has pitched 412 innings in the season, is leading the league in strikeouts with 104.

Coach Frank Anderson's highest-striding collegians improved in their fielding last week to finish the week with an average of .940, second to the Florida Gators, who have .961, who have ended their season.

BAKER HITS 412.
And did you know that Sam Baker, fleet center fielder, is hitting .412 and Hal (Red Pepper) Martin, a sophomore and class of the league at shortstop, is pounding the ball at .395?

Jimmy Hitchcock, stellar Auburn outfielder and football player, is hitting .395, while Roger Kaley, catcher, is batting .364; Sophomore Ripper Williams has an average of .357, and Harry Lloyd, all-Dixie league first baseman, is barely above the .300 mark with .305.

As a team Auburn is hitting .270, representing 95 hits in nine games. The Tigers are fielding at .925.

And so there is no question but that the two clubs earned their present standing.

PITCHING AID.
The return of Ray (Dixie) Walker, a good right-handed pitcher who was operated on for appendicitis before the season opened, will aid the Petrels in their forthcoming four-game series on the road. He probably will pitch in one of the Port Bonning games Wednesday and Thursday. Mitchell, Lefty Dixon and Belton Clark are set for the Auburn series.

The Petrels leave Atlanta early Wednesday morning by automobile, and will return the following Sunday. Then they will go into a session of hard practice for the return series with Auburn here Friday and Saturday, May 13 and 14, which is expected to climax the season with the league pennant going to the winner.

It is planned to play the games at Ponce de Leon, in double-headers with the Crackers and Knoxville.

Georgia and Tech, chief state rivals, clash at the Rose Bowl Friday and Saturday, seeking to improve their respective standings.

Fire Insurance FACTS

"Hotter'n Blazes"

BY WOOD BURNS

"The patronize home industries" stuff that we printed in this column last Monday must of "hit the nail on the head" with a lot of fellows, considering the number who called various members of the Atlanta Association of Fire Insurance Agents, and discussed their fire insurance problems during the past week.

And that is exactly what we've tried to get you to do all along—Use our tried-and-true fire insurance experience on your fire insurance problems, which enables you to know that you have the right amount and the right sort of fire protection at all times.

And, if there ever was a time when you ought to have adequate fire protection it is Right Now! Therefore, let no false economy ideas bamboozle you into cutting down on Fire Insurance until you have first consulted one of the old reliable members of the Atlanta Association of Fire Insurance Agents, that runs this ad in The Constitution ever Monday.

And don't forget: "VALUE IN INSURANCE LIES IN THE INTEGRITY AND KNOWLEDGE OF YOUR AGENT."

PORTLIGHT By Kenneth Rice

The Big Barrier.

On Wednesday of this week the strongest American women's golf team ever selected will sail to face one of the largest barriers in sport. In the first place this American team has to meet a British team headed by the brilliant Joyce Wethered, supported by Enid Wilson and other fine players. After this the individual members of the American side will try again to break down the hoodoo of the British championship, which no American woman has ever won. Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare reached the final canto twice, and that is the nearest we have come to victory.

The team sailing this week includes Mrs. Vare, five times women's champion of the United States; Helen Hicks, the present champion; Virginia Van Wie, Maureen Orcutt, Mrs. O. S. Hill and Mrs. Cheney, better known to golfers as the former Mrs. Pressler. This is an extremely able delegation. It will be directed by Miss Maria Hollins, another former champion whose judgment can be relied upon to the last word.

Either Mrs. Vare or Miss Hicks will be named to face Miss Wethered at the top of the column. If Mrs. Vare is named this will leave the two champions, Miss Hicks and Miss Wilson, scheduled for another hard fight. Both Americans will need their finest golf to match this pair under English skies. This coming week or 10 days of golf between the best women players of the United States and Great Britain will be one of the big events of the year, attracting more general interest than any women's team match or championship has yet known.

It was Jimmy Dykes who said in an informal talk-test, not so long ago that the Athletics would be more dangerous this year than last, because all the boys need that world series bonus this year. Sounds reasonable, of course, but an old-time gambler once gave a tip.

"If you want to win gambling, look for a poor sucker who's down to his last dollar and bet against him. Those who need money never get it."

That's a far cry from baseball, but the A's wouldn't be the first wage earners who found that the formula that seemed so easy when they were riding the crest is hard to remember when you really need it.

It speaks very well for Frankie Crosetti that the Yank rookie can enjoy the fans' confidence and encourage them to cheer him on, even when he is under what it should be. His fielding has been brilliant and the stadium crowds feel certain the Pacific coast wonder will soon begin fattening his average.

The Yanks are hitting 'high, wide and handsome, so it isn't such a bad idea to have one member of the team coasting. It would be a good break to have Frankie come on his hitting streak, but the inevitable slump is lurking over the Yankies' artillery.

That's the rumbling and roaring right now.

NEW ORLEANS, May 1.—The Pelicans came home to open their 15-game home stay today, but they were not to have the Volunteers of Nashville a double defeat before nearly 8,000 fans.

New Orleans was a slugging match in the opener, 12 to 10, and won the second contest of seven innings, 7 to 5.

Fred Johnson, working the second game, chalked up his third straight victory of the season.

FORREST HILLS BEATS MARIETTA IN GOLF LEAGUE

Ingleside, Ansley Defer
Match; Rome Forfeits
to West End.

By Roy White.

Forrest Hills won the only match in the opening of the North Georgia Golf League, when they beat Marietta, 10 to 1, on the Forrest Hills course. Sunday afternoon, Ansley Park and Ingleside postponed their match until a later date and Rome forfeited to West End, as several members of their team were unable to appear.

Morgan McNeil and Arthur Williams gave Marietta its only point when they defeated B. Griffin and John Rembert.

Travis Johnson and R. McGregor won two points from Max Pittard and J. M. Tate; C. Allen and Tom Stewart won three points from Bill Vance and P. Latimer; P. Griffin and T. Adams won three points from R. Jones and M. Sandow, and J. Conyers and L. A. Scott won two points from J. Corn and R. Little.

Sage and Cook Advance to Finals.
Dan Sage Jr. and Jack Cook advanced to the finals of the best-ball foursome tournament on the Ansley Park course, Sunday afternoon, Sunday over Dan Smith and John Kilpatrick.

Mahone Scores Hole-in-One.
Hunter Mahone scored a hole-in-one on the Sweetwater golf course, Sunday afternoon, when his tee shot rolled into the cup on the fourth green. It is a par three, 145-yard hole.

Mahone was playing with Howard Brown, Edwin Baggett and Arthur Hooten.

Reviewing the Shows

Seats on Sale Today

For "Sein Liebespiel"

Seats will be on sale all day today at the Cable Piano Company for the performances to be given on Tuesday of the delightful German musical comedy of the screen, "Sein Liebespiel."

This picture which, in English, is titled "His Love Song," is produced by the same company, the same director and the same composer who were responsible for "Two Hearts in Waltz Time."

It is a more recent picture than its famous predecessor and is said by critics to show marked improvement. It shows more of the influence of American jazz and, while retaining the delicate beauty of its Viennese music and treatment, moves at a faster tempo than "Two Hearts."

The leading male role is taken by Will Frost, who made such a splendid impression as the taller of the two brothers, Nicky and Vicky, in "Two Hearts."

The feminine lead is in the hands of Fee Malton, of the Viennese opera, who was not in the earlier production.

The picture will be shown at the Woman's Club auditorium, with its recently installed latest and best sound projection equipment. There will be two performances, one at 8:30 in the evening and another at 10:15 in the afternoon.

Seats will be on sale at Cable Piano Company all day today and on Tuesday at the Cable Piano Company.

The picture is a welcome relief from the gay gang films, bedroom farces, musical "gems" and distorted newspaper pictures which have been the lot of theaters for many months.

It portrays the power of the Almighty which even the twisted minds of clever crooks cannot fathom.

BRANLEY

The door slammed behind him, leaving Judy puzzled, suddenly quite excited, suddenly happy without quite knowing why.

"Elsie!" she called. "Elsie!"

"Yes!" Elsie, a girl wrinkling her stubby nose, appeared from the next room, flowers in her hand.

"Naughty, naughty thing to do. Little pitchers have big ears, and I've got bigger ones than that. And here's your change, Judy." She extended the long box.

"I thought you were going to give them to me," Judy said.

"These? Not a chance. Look! She opened the box, and Judy saw deep red roses, enormous roses dozens of feet high, and a box of flowers in the box. "Aren't they elegant, Judy?"

"Yes. They're nice, I want 'em."

"And you really don't guess?"

"No."

"Then—" Suddenly, Elsie was all serious. "Judy, nobody ever brought me flowers, and you're Billy. He'd bring a new tube for the radio set. And show me how a super-super-super-something—other works on a radio set. But you can't do it 'em yourself, I'm gonna put 'em all over my room. And I'm gonna sit there and think myself better, so you brought 'em to me, and get all happy

The announcer took up as she left the room, and she said, "So many so women could write for the Beauty Builder's advice. Now the light was off. Now it was over.

She then gathered up the sheets of a script and read, and then she put it in her bag. Tomorrow she'd send a whole file of them home to mother, and she'd tell her about the neighbors, and be proud of them, and the pathetic determination she'd try to follow all the suggestions, all the exercises, and she'd be proud of them about the old ones, she'd be so busy trying the new ones. But she would be proud of her daughter, telling so many women all these things, so very proud.

The day's work was done. Fifteen million women got to get in and check every Saturday. And in a hundred thousand offices a million girls would all day six days a week, and get each week. Lucky Judy Allison. Lucky!

Her mind stood still. She could not breathe. Her eyes were wrong. What she saw was not what it could happen. But it had!

Dick Mason himself turned away from the door, and he took a script, stuffed it in his pocket, started out of the studio.

"Dick! Dick!" called a man to him.

about. And shut my eyes so I can't see myself in the looking glass and think what a very beautiful gal is I. And—Hev! You're not with me at

"All! You're up in the clouds! You!"
 "Elsie, Dick's coming back!"
 "He what? What did you say?"
 "Dick's coming back. Tomorrow."
 "How do you know? Who said so?"
 "Nobody said so. But I know."
 "You got second sight, maybe?"
 "No. But I know he's coming this time. I'm sure. I'm sure as can be. Elsie. Just from what Elsie said. And all he said was that he had news, or that I was going to get news in the morning. And he didn't even say what news. But I know!"

"Listen!" Elsie said to Judy. She went to the big radio set in the corner of the dining room, snapped on the power, twisted the dial a bit. A cacophonous mixture of voice, of music, of shouts, of static, filled the room. Then the melee ended.

Suddenly, loud and clear, Judy heard the music of some distant orchestra, slow, smooth. And it faded away, there was a sound of applause from a dance place Judy never would see. Then—

"This concludes our program from the Hollenden House cafe in Cleveland. Your announcer has been Richard Mason, who bids you good night and good luck."

Dick! Dick's own voice! The same deep, clear voice, the same way of making words sing when they had no reason to sing, the same voice that thousands of girls were hearing and thrilling to at this moment, all over the country.

Girls as pretty as Judy Allison. nicer than Judy Allison. Maybe one of them was sitting with Dick now, as Judy had with him the night when Dick took her to meet Ben Bernie and Paul Whiteman.

Maybe he was saying things to some girl in the same deep clear voice she remembered so well. Saying the same things he had said to her, and meaning them, and thinking of Judy Allison only as a girl who had lied to him and cheated him.

So again it was morning and again they stopped at the restaurant, and again Judy and Elsie parted as usual. But this time Judy did not ride south, as south. She walked, instead, up Michigan, then down Michigan. Then in State street, for a long time. Here, in big windows, were gowns she had been talking about, perhaps, in today's show; this kind of bolero, that kind of high cut, that sort of fur trimming and lace at the waist, that sort of dress with the four-nerened effect. Clothes she would have loved to have because she loved clothes; she loved looking at clothes she couldn't possibly wear. And she was only dressed in a window.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Information

CLOSING HOURS

Want Ads are accepted up to 9 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES

Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:

One time 20 cents
Three times 50 cents
Seven times 100 cents
Minimum, 2 lines (12 words).

In estimating the space of an ad, figure six average words to a line. Ads ordered for three or seven days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and adjustments made at the rate earned.

Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The Constitution will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion.

All want ads are restricted to their proper classification and The Constitution reserves the right to revise or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from persons listed in the telephone or city directory on memorandum charges only in return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN No. 85

Tarzan looked at the prince. "Who are these men?" he demanded, "and why have they been killed?" "They are not dead, my friend," laughed the prince. "They are nobles who indulged in a drunken orgy. And the stain beneath that fellow's head is red wine, not blood."
